Introduction

Washington State has a tradition of actively encouraging its citizens to participate in our political system. The initiative and referendum process, the state voters pamphlet and election notice advertising are just a few examples of our heritage of promoting citizen involvement in our system of government.

Please read this pamphlet carefully. It is intended to explain some of the major features of state election law relating to procedures for nominating minor party and independent candidates. It is not intended to be a substitute for the statutes governing this process but rather should be read in conjunction with them.

If you have questions or need additional information, please contact your County Auditor or Elections Department or the Secretary of State's Elections Division. We will be happy to assist you.

Definitions

A convention is an organized assemblage of registered voters representing an independent candidate or a minor political party.

An election jurisdiction (for the purposes of minor and independent candidates) is the state or any political subdivision or jurisdiction of the state from which partisan officials are elected.

An independent candidate is a candidate for partisan political office who does not represent himself or herself as a member of either a major political party or a minor political party.

A major political party is a political party of which at least one nominee for President and Vice President of the United States, United States Senator, or a state-wide office received at least five percent (5%) of the total election vote cast at the last preceding state general election in an even-numbered year. Major parties of which no nominee received at least ten percent (10%) of the total vote cast may revert to minor party status by filing with the secretary of state.

A minor political party is a political party which has nominated candidates for public office and for which no candidate for state-wide office received at least five percent (5%) of the vote at the last general election held in an even-numbered year.

A nominating petition is a document signed by a voter or a group of voters supporting the nominations made at a minor party or independent candidate convention. Multiple petition sheets supporting the same minor party or independent candidate shall be considered a single nominating petition.

The filing officer for candidates filing for all federal offices, for all statewide offices, and joint legislative or joint judicial districts is the Office of the Secretary of State. Candidates of legislative offices, court of appeals, and superior court positions that are within one county have the choice of filing with the Office of the Secretary of State or the appropriate County Auditor or elections officer. The filing officer of all other offices is the County Auditor or elections officer.

Primary means the nominating primary held for all partisan offices in the state except President and Vice President.

A certificate of nomination certifies that a candidate has been nominated by a minor party, or as an independent candidate, but does not include the nominating petitions.

A filing fee petition is a document filed in lieu of the filing fee by a candidate who lacks adequate financial resources to pay the fee at the time of filing.

Nomination by Convention

Any independent or minor party candidate desiring to have his or her name placed on the ballot as a candidate for partisan public office at any regularly scheduled election may begin the qualification process by holding a nominating convention held not earlier than the last Saturday in June and not later than the first Saturday in July or in the case of a vacancy in United States Congress, during any of the seven (7) days immediately proceeding the first day for filing declarations of candidacy as fixed by RCW 29A.28.041.

Nominations of candidates for President and Vice President of the United States only may file by following the procedures listed above or by holding a similar convention no later than 70 days before the general election.

If a special filing period for a partisan office is opened under RCW 29A.24.211, candidates may file for office during that special filing period. The names of those candidates may not appear on the ballot unless they are nominated by a convention held no later than five (5) days after the close of the special filing period and a certificate of nomination is filed with the filing officer no later than three (3) days after the convention.

Multiple Nominating Conventions

A minor political party or independent candidate may hold more than one convention but in no case shall any convention nominate more than one candidate for any one partisan public office or position.

For the purpose of nominating candidates for the office of President and Vice President, United States Senator, United States Representative, or a statewide office, a minor party or independent candidate holding multiple conventions may add together the number of signatures from each convention obtained in support of the candidate or candidates in order to obtain the one thousand (1,000) valid signatures required by RCW 29A.20.141. However, none of the conventions may be attended by fewer than one hundred (100) registered voters (see below and RCW 29A.20.141).

For all other offices for which nominations are made, signatures of at least one hundred (100) registered voters must be obtained at a single convention.

Requirements for a Valid Nominating Convention

To be valid, a convention must:

1. Have been called by a notice in a newspaper of general circulation, published in the county in which the convention is to be held, at least ten (10) days before the date of the convention. The notice must state the date, hour, and place the convention is to be held and must also include the mailing address of the person or organization sponsoring the convention (see sample Notice of Publication);

2. Be attended by at least 100 registered voters from the election jurisdiction for which nominations are to be made.

In order to nominate candidates for the offices of President and Vice President of the United States, United States Senator, United States Representative, or any state-wide office, a nominating convention must obtain and submit to the filing officer the signatures of at least one thousand (1,000) registered voters of the state of Washington. In order to nominate candidates for any other office, a nominating convention must obtain and submit to the filing officer the signatures of one hundred (100) persons who are registered to vote in the jurisdiction of the office for which the nominations are made.

Certificate of Nomination: Content

A certificate of nomination must:

1. Be in writing;
2. Contain the name of each person nominated, his or her residence, and the office for which he or she is named, and if the nomination is for the offices of President and Vice President of the United States, a sworn statement from both nominees giving their consent to the nomination (see sample Consent to Nomination);
3. Identify the minor political party or the independent candidate on whose behalf the convention was held;
4. Be verified by the oath of the presiding officer and secretary;
5. Be accompanied by a nominating petition or petitions bearing the signatures and addresses of registered voters equal in number to that required by RCW 29A.20.141.

NOTE: A nominating petition submitted to the filing officer must clearly identify the name of the minor party or independent candidate as it appears on the Statement of Nomination. The petition must also contain a statement that the person signing the petition is a registered voter of the jurisdiction for which nominations are made and must have a space for the voter to sign his or her name and to print his or her name and address. No person may sign more than one minor party or independent candidate nominating petition for the same office (see sample nominating petitions);

6. Contain proof of publication of the notice of calling the convention; and
7. Be submitted to the appropriate filing officer not later than one week following adjournment of the convention at which the nominations were made (see sample Statements of Nomination).

Certificate of Nomination: Where Filed

If the nominations are for candidates filing for all federal offices, for all statewide offices, and joint legislative or joint judicial districts the nomination petitions and certificates must be filed with the Office of the Secretary of State. If the nominations are for candidates of legislative offices, court of appeals, and superior court positions that are within one county the nominations and certificates should be filed with which ever filing officer they have chosen to file with, either the Office of the Secretary of State or the appropriate County Auditor or elections officer. All other nominations and certificates should be filed with the County Auditor or elections officer.

Presidential Electors

If a minor political party or independent candidate convention nominates candidates for the offices of President and Vice President of the United States, they must submit a list of presidential electors to the Office of the Secretary of State.

The list may be submitted with the Statement of Nomination (see sample on Page 15), or may be submitted with a letter of transmittal signed by the presiding officer of the convention, not more than ten (10) days after the convention adjourns.

Verification of Signatures

Upon receipt of the Certificate of Nomination, the filing officer must check the certificate and verify the signatures on the accompanying nominating petition to determine if the requirements of RCW 29A.20.140 have been met. Once the determination has been made, the filing officer is required to notify the presiding officer of the convention and any other persons requesting the notification, of his or her decision regarding the sufficiency of the certificate or the nominating petition.

Any appeal regarding the filing officer's determination must be filed with the Superior Court of the county in which the certificate or petitions were filed not later than five (5) days from the date the determination is made. Nominating petitions are not available for public inspection or copying.

The Secretary of State must notify county auditors of the names and designations of all minor party and independent candidates who have filed valid convention certificates and nominating petitions with that office no later than the Friday immediately preceding the first day for candidates to file for office as provided by state law (RCW 29A.20.201).

Declarations of Candidacy

If a nominating certificate is valid, each candidate (except for the positions of President or Vice President) will be eligible to file a Declaration of Candidacy with the filing officer with whom the convention report was filed. It must be accompanied by a fee prescribed for that office (1% of the annual salary).

Persons without adequate financial resources may file a Filing Fee Petition in lieu of the filing fee at the same time they file the Declaration of Candidacy. The Filing Fee Petition must be signed by a number of registered voters equal to the dollar amount of the filing fee (see sample Filing Fee Petition).

The Declaration of Candidacy must be filed with the appropriate filing officer during the filing period in order for the candidate's name to appear on the general election ballot. The filing period for 2005 only is August 22 through August 26.

Nominations by Write-In

Any person desiring to run as an independent or minor party write-in candidate should contact either the appropriate filing officer for information regarding this procedure.
